What the Housewife wants to Know.

Old stockings cut down the seam make excellent cloths for polishing furniture and floors, as well as soft iron-holders.

Gasoline put on stains on a white silk waist, followed by as much lumpy magnesia as the gasoline will take up, well rubbed in, will generally remove the stains.

When grease is spilled on the kitchen table or floor, pour cold water on it at once to prevent its soaking into the wood. It will quickly harden and can be lifted with a knife.

To remove soot from a carpet, sprinkle plenty of fine salt over it and sweep along the grain of the carpet. Repeat until every trace of the soot is removed.

In making down pillows go over the wrong side of the case with an iron rubbed well with beeswax each time it is applied to the cloth, to prevent the down working through the cloth.

Flat irons should be washed every week and always kept in a clean, dry place. Few housekeepers use sufficient wax in ironing. Do not allow your irons to become red hot, as they will never again retain the heat.

It is almost literally true that no book undertaken merely as task work ever helped the reader to knowledge of material or permanent value. If you do not read a work with keen enjoyment you are not likely to gain anything from the time you give to it.

It would not be a bad rule for those who can read but little to read no book until it has been published at least a year or two. A fever for the newest books, which are frequently of an ephemeral character, is not a wholesome condition of mind.

Lay down the rule, and adhere to it, to read none but the best books, and you will soon lose all relish for the worthless ones. Few and far between are the good works of the world. The reader who becomes familiar with the writings of a great author learns to know all that was best in one of the world's famous men.

Was In Line For the Presidency.

Mr. Thatcher stated that at the time he was removed from the apostolate he was in line for the presidency of the church. He said he was dropped from the rolls in April, 1896, and formal action was taken by his quorum in November, 1896. Continuing, he said: "I suppose I am the only man of my age in the Mormon Church who has no priesthood."

WHY NOT

SEND J. CALHOUN MAYO

To Congress in 1906?

Whitesburg, Ky., Apr. 29, '04.
TATLER.

Editor Mt. Sterling Advocate:—

Many years ago (a greater number of years than my wife suspects) when I was a boy, my chief delight was to write for the newspapers. I seldom undertook to write on topics weightier than neighborhood gossip; but once during those halcyon days, when I lived at West Liberty, I wrote a communication to the Mt. Sterling Sentinel advocating William Preston Taubee, then an ill-clad and poorly fed young Methodist preacher, for Congress.

The late Col. John Tom Hazelrigg, then editor of the Licking Valley Scorch, published from West Liberty, replied to my article, through his paper, and, whether a prospective candidate himself and prompted by selfish motives (as he was seldom, if ever, prompted) I know not; anyhow, he ridiculed the idea, but to ridicule nothing else could stop the Taubee boom thus inaugurated. It rolled over the Tenth District with irresistible force and the silver tongue of that brimley, brilliant young Kentucky orator and statesman was soon heard in the councils of the nation. Mr. Taubee has often told me that he owed his start in public life to that little article I wrote for the Sentinel.

MAYO.

Now, not as a boy, but as a man of varied experiences I beg admission to the columns of the Advocate, I trust not prematurely, to propose to the Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District the name of that young "Napoleon" of the mountains, John C. C. Mayo, of Paintsville, Johnson county, for the nomination for Congress in 1906. I do not know that Mr. Mayo has the slightest inclination to go to Congress (Mr. Taubee assured me that he had never thought of the like until I proposed his name), but if this article shall inspire him with a desire to serve his country in the capacity of Congressman, and cause a Mayo boom, equal to the Taubee boom, to sweep the district it's mission shall have been accomplished.

Mr. Mayo is not a politician but a thorough business man, a "true blue" Democrat and in him are the elements of able statesmanship. He is not a worm-out office seeker. He is broad gauged and brainy, kind hearted and generous, and makes friends of all with whom he comes in contact.

A few years ago, he was a penniless young man, but by dint of prodigious effort he has arisen to business ability and prominence equalled by few men in Kentucky, and his wealth is estimated at more than a million dollars. Did he get it honestly? He did it by legitimate speculation in mountain land and mineral rights. He has nothing to do with "wild-cat" claims, but has dealt directly with the resident owners, paying them more than twice as much per acre as they could have gotten from any other source. He is the chief promoter and leading spirit of the great Northern Coal and Coke Company, which has some with its millions to develop Southeastern Kentucky. Through the efforts of Mr. Mayo, more money has flowed into this section of the State within the last five years, than within twenty-five years before. He has been honest, truthful and prompt in all business transactions and enjoys the full confidence of his wide circle of friends.

Mr. Mayo is a friend of his people. He doesn't need the salary of a Congressman, (and we don't believe that the question of charity should enter into it anyhow); but if he should go to Congress (and he can go if he wants to) he would put forth his best efforts for his constituents. This is an age of business, and business men rather than old political bloats are needed in the government of our country. Mr. Mayo has never been an office holder nor an office seeker. It seems, also that the spirit of Democracy favors strong young men of brains and energy rather than "old stagers" who have already served nearly life sentences in Democratic office. Such a young man is Mr. Mayo. Honestly, unselfishness, and a high order of intelligence are the attributive trinity of his splendid young manhood and if many friends in the District could induce him to enter the race in 1906, his opponents will find him to be a foe worthy of their steel, and in my opinion he will win in a walk. Some time ago, he said to me that he was working to the end that when he should die, no man could point to his grave and say: "There lies a scoundrel who would not pay what he owed me. Like Aulo Ben Adhem, he 'loves his fellowman' and when the time arrives for him to hand in his final 'release deed' for record and enroll his name on the roster of eternity, it will appear high on the scroll near that of Aulo Ben. Who else says burrah for Mayo in 1906?"

Treatment of Fruit Trees.

An orchard may easily be set out, but the care thereafter requires a great deal of skill in order to give the trees the best growth, and to make them as profitable as possible. The first thing toward successful orcharding is to select a well-drained spot, sloping toward the South or Southwest, which is somewhat protected from the northern winds, but the location is not the most important point. We find it rather difficult to train a tree to its proper or desired shape, because to give hard and fast rules which to train them is not easily done as no two trees are alike, and therefore we cannot give all trees the same manner of pruning. But we should have in mind an ideal toward which to work, and after which to shape our young trees. It is always advisable to thin out the tops of trees when branches become over-crowded or weakly, unruly branches appear. Clipping off the branches without aim will in a few years diminish the fruit capacity of the tree. The quality of fruit depends much upon the health of the tree. In early spring, we should scrape all rough bark from the body of the tree in order to get a smooth surface; this prevents insects from harboring under the bark and gives the bark a healthy breathing surface.

A Subterfuge.

"I'll be glad to favor your application for a license," said the merchant, "if you'll call the place a cafe."
"But it amounts to the same thing, don't it?" replied the would-be saloon keeper.
"Not to me. I promised my wife never to patronize a saloon!" Philadelphia Public Ledger.

but that there are some pretty good break carts running. Presume they get a welcome, because they never had experience with anything better. Ignorance may be bliss, but it isn't business.

The way things are now, we'd rather sell "B. B. Carts" than to eat. Their quality makes some we've seen at the same price look like junk. "Hand forgings, best second-growth black hickory shafts and risers, best work all over." That's the pedigree of the carts we build. If you want to know more about them just talk to Poultry Notes.

A change of feed is necessary to maintain thrift.

Unless you have extra good accommodations do not be in a hurry for early chicks. True the early ones bring the best prices, but some provision must be made to raise them without much loss in order to pay one for the extra care needed at this time.

To get eggs in winter, the fowls should be warmly housed, especially at night. On bitter cold days they should not be let out of doors at all, and their houses should be large enough so that they will move about freely and should be well lighted. All the exercise possible should be induced by adopting such plans as scattering all grain food in dry litter, hanging up cabbages for the fowls to peck at, etc.

As to food, give them a soft mash in the morning, consisting of bran, shipstiff or wheat shorts and steamed clover hay. Follow this up by feeding liberally of oats, well scattered in litter, and on really cold days a full feed of corn at night should be given. Grit, charcoal and ground bone should be fed in a hopper and always before the fowls.

A. F. Hunter says good management is the secret of success, and bad management is the cause of the so-called "bad luck." There is no such thing as "good luck" and "bad luck" with poultry; it is all in the management. As Mr. Hunter once owned and managed one of the largest poultry farms in the East, his words carry considerable weight with them.

A good trio is poultry, small fruits and bees, says Baltimore Sun. This is a good combination to secure special customers for, too. Neither, when properly managed, will interfere with the others. The poultry will help keep down insects destructive to fruit, the shrubs will make shade for the poultry, the bees will help fertilize the fruit blooms and the blooms will make the honey.

College at West Liberty.

The Presbyterian College is a sure thing for West Liberty, as the required amount has been paid up and the site has been bought. The church asked for $4,330 and the site, which has been secured. Work will begin about May 1. It will be a large, modern brick building.

The President Advertiser.

A publication most liberally patronized by advertisers, which charges good prices for its space and refuses to print at any price such advertisements as it does not care to handle, tell manufacturers and dealers that it wishes advertisements of such goods as will interest its readers, and adds:

"It wants such advertising on a permanent basis. It has no time nor space for the experimental or spasmodic advertiser."

"If you want to advertise just once or twice just to see what happens don't come to the— For the probabilities are that nothing in particular will happen."

"There is no reason under the sun why people should answer the first advertisement of yours they see."

"You may be an old con, but to them you are absolutely new."

"They are buying of somebody else the article you sell. They will make a change only when convinced of the wisdom of such a course."

"You can't expect to convince them with one advertisement, not with two."

"But if your goods and your prices are right, you can convince them in time."

"The first few advertisements will convince some people. Then every additional advertisement will convince more people—many more than any previous advertisement. Every advertisement carries the influence of all its predecessors. If you keep it up continuously, and intelligently, it's only a question of time when you'll have all the trade you're entitled to, and that's all the trade anybody ever gets—and holds."

Wit, Wisdom and Philosophy.

MT. STERLING SHORT LINE.

Coming above the horizon we are able to see the rays from rising hope. Only a few more thousand, the books will be closed and the constructing of the Short Line will be with the contractors. The farmers having realized the necessity of this road are coming up like men, some of whom need only an explanation of benefits to give their stock subscriptions. We would have them single out or write H. Clay McKee, W. T. Tyler, R. M. Triamble, W. H. Nunnelley, John R. Blount, C. C. Chenault, W. S. Lloyd, C. H. Pety or any business man within the city and give their subscriptions. This week subscriptions are needed worse than last because they are fewer and harder to get. Every farmer should examine into his duty to himself and family and subscribe because of the benefits the road will bring.

FOR DISTRICT DELEGATE.

The name of Finley E. Fogg has been frequently mentioned as a delegate from the Tenth Congressional district to the National Convention at St. Louis. We are not in a position to say that Mr. Fogg is a candidate for this place but we do know that there is a strong feeling among the Democrats of Morgan and adjoining counties who are greatly in favor of him being sent to represent the district in the St. Louis convention. Finley is a loyal, conservative Democrat, and one who wants harmony and success, and who has the courage and ability to make a delegate that the Democrats of this district would feel proud of. This is the kind of a Democrat we want to send. We want success this fall, and if we have success we must have conservative delegates. Without harmony and conservatism we cannot win—Morgan County Messenger.

Mr. Fogg is a native of this county, and the Messenger has in no way overdrawn the manner of man and Democrat Mr. Fogg is. We do not know him to be a candidate for this responsible position, but if he is the Democracy of the district may be assured that he will be studiously and courageously care for the interests of the party and that of the people. Without a hint from Mr. Fogg we take this method of making the suggestion of the Messenger a motion that will place his claims as a man and Democrat before the Tenth district, trusting that body assembled will by acclamation make him its representative at St. Louis. The future of the people is up to the young people of the party and it would be wise to select the best from the great number of good ones. Men in whom the people have confidence, who are informed as to Democratic principles, who are conservative, honorable, bold and determined. Such a man is Judge Finley E. Fogg and the district would do well to demand his services.

THE BEST.

Mt. Sterling is one of the best business points in the South, and can be made one of the most moral business points in the South if the good people will only work to this end. Only pure men, men who regard the law and their oath to enforce it are needed in position, and it is up to the people to elect them.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Saturday is the day when three trustees are to be elected for the Mt. Sterling Public High School. The only candidates reported at this office are L. T. Chiles, Dr. R. Q. Drake and Owen Laughlin. We could not have better and we trust all the voters of Mt. Sterling will put themselves on record as endorsing their management of this school. They deserve it. We owe the endorsement and the people who patronize this institution will be satisfied with their management.

PITIABLE.

It is pitiable to see sons of our best men come to our city to get drunk. Who offers these drinks, the people? Can't we offer the country boys something better? It has been said and we have not heard it denied that these same boys, after they are drunken with liquor, are taken into gambling dens where they are relieved of their hard earnings. These iniquitous, unlawful dens can be broken up, and men are paid a salary whose duty it is to do this work. The people have elected them and they had better do as the people desire, for a reckoning day is not far away.

NOT ENOUGH.

The committee, that went to Louisville to place before the business men of that city the advantages to them of a competitive railroad, was encouraged but sufficient money was not raised to finish the stock subscriptions.

Go to the voting places in Mt. Sterling, Saturday, at any time from six o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon and vote for L. T. Chiles, R. Q. Drake and Owen Laughlin. Everybody should vote on that day and for these candidates.

Mt. Sterling Public Graded High School has a fine body of men for her trustees. They take interest in the school, are competent and in them the people have the utmost confidence. Let every man entitled to vote aid in the election of L. T. Chiles, R. Q. Drake and Owen Laughlin.

Vote for L. T. Chiles, R. Q. Drake and Owen Laughlin for public school trustees.

Public Graded School Declamatory Contest.

The Declamatory Contest at Masonic Temple on Friday evening was of unusual interest. In this contest a decision was rendered by impartial judges selecting the best declaimer to represent the Mt. Sterling Graded High School at the Blue Grass Tournament which meets at Nicholasville, May 26, 27, 28. The mandolin club and vocalists renditions were highly entertaining but the real interest centered on the contest in which brave boys were anxious to measure talents and gifts. The first on the program was Laird Throop with Clyde Stephenson as usher; subject "The Owl Critic." In this effort Laird was real cute and showed marked ability and good training; he was the cause of much applause.

Second was Jacob Hedden with Richard Apperson as usher; subject: "Selections from Dedicatory Oration at Unveiling of Monument of James L. Young." Jacob is a good speaker with fine voice, easy before an audience and gave evidence of a favorite speaker should he continue in drill and application.

Third was Edmond Wells with William Fench as usher; subject: "Boston Kindling Garter Teacher." This was a difficult piece to render but Edmond was its master and the house went wild in cheering the dramatic speaker. In this he gave evidence of the most thorough training.

Fourth was Brent Nunnelley with Robert Turner as usher; subject: "The Boy Orator of Zepeta City." Brent was self composed, familiar with his subject, free from stage fright, perfect in gesture with fine voice and grace in movement. The cheering was evidence that the declaimer was hard to beat and at this point stood head.

Fifth was Bratton Sutton, usher: C. T. Coleman; subject: "Death of the Gadiy." The subject of this declamation was at himself and entered the subject with that real sentimentality that carries with it conviction and leads to victory. From the very first he caught the enraptured attention of the audience and held it riveted until the close. It was a fine piece well handled.

Sixth was Lloyd Frazer with Thomas Vansant as usher; subject: "Lasca." Lloyd had been before the people before and the immense crowd in whose favor he stands high, was not disappointed in expecting much of him. Self-possessed, graceful, good voice, fine articulation, earnest, he delivered his piece like a winner.

Seventh was Harry Stevenson with Hodge Morris as usher; subject: "Red Head's Account of the Flood." Harry was another good speaker and so well did he follow the author that the close brought down the house with prolonged applause.

Rev. J. R. Hobbs, Mr. J. G. Winn and C. D. Grubbs, judges, were out for some time causing much nervousness on the part of the special friends of the declaimers. Mr. Hobbs complemented each speaker and the medal was given to Mr. Brent Nunnelley who will contend for the honors at Nicholasville.

Of the seven contestants six were trained by Miss Mary Pratt Hedden, and Lloyd Frazer by his mother. Miss Minnie Groves was the pianist.

FACTS and OBSERVATIONS

At Carlisle, Kentucky.

The writer went to Carlisle on Thursday morning to attend a religious convention of the Sunday Schools of the Christian Church in the Eight District, composing Nicholas, Harrison, Bourbon, Clark, Montgomery and Bath. The district was here organized. R. M. Hopkins, the Sunday School evangelist, was in charge of the singing.

W. S. Willis was elected temporary chairman and B. W. Trimble secretary.

Among the visitors from this section were: Kent Pendleton, of Orangeville, B. W. Trimble and Miss Kannie Burroughs, of this city, Mrs. E. Y. Nelson, Miss Ida Delaney and J. M. Rash, of Clark. The other counties were more largely represented.

The speakers: Prof. Milton Elliott, of K. C. & B. College, North Middletown, H. W. Elliott, of Sulphur, Ky., J. M. Rash, R. B. Neal, B. W. Trimble, W. J. Walker, Lexington; J. T. Sharrard and Carey E. Morgan, of Paris; Kent Pendleton. At evening Robert Hopkins conducted an institute and gave stereoscopic views similar to his work in our city recently.

The attendance was not large. The addresses and talks were interesting, instructive and helpful. Miss Delaney read a fine paper on the Sunday School Secretary. The writer spoke on the Teacher and Attendance.

The officers for the ensuing year are W. S. Willis, Millersburg, President; P. F. King, Carlisle, Vice-President; B. W. Trimble, Mt. Sterling, Secretary.

Later during the convention it was decided to have a Statistician. The writer was chosen for that work, and now requests the Superintendents of all Sunday Schools to favor him with reports when requested.

The writer was entertained at the home of Hiram Ewing and wife. Mrs. Ewing is the sister of J. W. Boardman, of our city.

C. W. B. M. CONVENTION.

This convention for some counties met on Friday, presided over by Mrs. Wornall, of Paris. The only representative from Montgomery was Miss Rannie Burroughs, who also performed the duties of Secretary.

The writer attended only the morning session. Entertainment for guests was at the homes.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The new Methodist Church is nearing completion. It is a very attractive, modern, up to date stone structure with stained glass windows. The new Presbyterian Church which will be completed during the summer is of stone, and it too will be a beauty.

Few, if any, small towns or cities in Kentucky will have church buildings as attractive as the four of Carlisle: Baptist, Christian, Methodist and Presbyterian.

Col. Craddock was there. The Democratic primary for County officers will take place on Saturday, May 7. We heard in the Mercury office that some of the candidates would be close.

J. H. Minogue, County Attorney, is a candidate for re-nomination.

DR. FENNER'S KIDNEY and Backache CURE

All diseases of kidneys, bladder, urinary organs, also rheumatism, backache, neuralgia, gravel, dropsy, female troubles. Don't become discouraged. There is a cure for you. If necessary write Dr. Fenner. You have spent a life time curing just such cases as yours. All consultations free. "Your Kidney and Backache Cure has cured two very bad cases among our customers the past year when the doctors had given up. J. L. STILL & CO., Woodland, La. Druggists, etc. Ask for Cook Book—Free. ST. VITUS DANCE Sore Cures, Circular, by Dr. Fenner, Free, on request."

He married Miss Bruton of our city. At the convention we met Mrs. Minogue, but did not see him during our stay.

THE CYCLONE.

The second story front of J. H. Minogue's brick residence was blown in, the furniture demolished and other damage done. Mrs. M. who was at home did not know of it until informed by a neighbor. Their loss is supposed to be about $500.

The roof of a building adjoining the Christian Church and owned by the congregation was partially torn off.

Other buildings were damaged. The public school building now being erected reminds one of a city set on a hill.

We stopped between trains in Paris.

On Thursday night a banquet was given in the church parlor by Rev. Carey E. Morgan, pastor of the Christian Church to the male members of the congregation, and many others. The ladies furnished the supper but none of them were in the banquet room.

The Kentuckian-Citizen says: All of the 350 guests are enthusiastic in their praise of the splendid hospitality exemplified on that occasion. The handsome edifice was appropriately decorated.

Toasts were responded to by Mr. Ashby J. Elliott, of Perois, Ill., Mr. McLachlan, of Richmond, and Elder Burris A. Jenkins, of Lexington, and the pertinent, witty and interesting remarks kept the guests in the utmost good humor.

A noticeable feature of the gathering was that it was entirely non-sectarian, the Catholic and all the Protestant churches being liberally represented.

Probably no previous social feature of any Paris church was so unanimously pronounced a distinct and eminent success.

WOLFE COUNTY.

(The Herald.)

Miss Lula Evans, who has been living at Cedar Bluff, Va., for about nine months past, came home Thursday last.

Miss Pearl Johnson, who has been visiting her parents, A. F. Johnson and wife, of Lacey Creek, left for Bushton, Ill., where she was formerly employed in the telephone exchange.

Chas. M. Rose has been appointed deputy sheriff for Clifty, Stillwater and Hazel Green precincts. He will fill the position with satisfaction to the public and himself as well.

Luther Murphy, who recently married in Montgomery county, sold out his possessions down there and bought half of the farm of his father, Dink Murphy, on Blackwater, for which he paid $1,200.

In Circuit Court at Campton on Wednesday, the saloon license that was issued by the Lee City authorities was declared to be null and void, and the parties who sold under it were fined notwithstanding. Amos Graham and Rich Terrell were assessed about $300 each, and in default went to jail.

OUR NATIVE TOWN.

We clip the following from the Herald at Hazel Green:

"There are now in Hazel Green just 10 people of the entire population who were here 30 years ago. Yesterday, April 27, was the thirtieth anniversary of the marriage of Hon. W. O. Mize and wife, and besides them there were the following eight others then living here: viz: Uncle Pres. Trimble, Mr. Jose Swango, Mrs. Frances Whaley, Mrs. Mary Ellen Trimble, daughters of Pres. Trimble, Mr. Lou Day, Mrs. Emma Evans, J. T. Day and wife."

Sixteen years of our happy childhood were spent in this village, and now our thoughts lovingly turn to those days, where our old home and mother were, and again they turn to that city not built with hands where mother is and home will be after awhile.

Quality * Counts!

The indiscriminating shopper, who thinks not of quality, usually ends where the wise buyer begins. In these days there are many alluring and plausible conditions brought to bear on the buying public that swerves them from the even tenor of their way. Japs are Victorious

On Land And Sea.

The first real fight on land between the Japs and Russians occurred on Sunday. On Saturday night about 16,000 Japs crossed the Yalu on pontoon bridges and at dawn on Sunday attacked the Russian fortifications for a distance of about 4 miles frontage.

The Russians numbering about 30,000 defeated their strongholds and retreated as rapidly as possible.

The Japs captured 24 rapid fire guns, much ammunition and other supplies and some prisoners.

The killed and wounded of Russians is 800, of Japs 700.

CURIOUS ECHOES.

One Place Where a Pistol Report is Repeated Sixty Times.

The suspension bridge across the Menai straits, in Wales, produces one of the most remarkable echoes in the world, says Stray Stories. The sound of a blow with a hammer on one of the main piers is returned in succession from each of the crossbeams which support the roadway, and from the opposite pier at the distance of 576 feet, in addition to which the sound is many times repeated between the water and roadway at the rate of 28 times in five seconds.

An equally remarkable echo is that of the castle of Simonetta, about two miles from Milan. The report of a pistol is repeated by this echo 60 times.

A singular echo is also heard in a grove near Castle Comber, in Ireland.

In the garden of the Tuilleries, in Paris, is an artificial echo, which repeats a whole verse without the loss of a single syllable.

Another wonderful echo is heard outside the Shipley Church, in Sussex, which echoes some 20 syllables in the most perfect manner.

The well-known echo at Woodstock repeats itself no fewer than 50 times. In one part of the Pantheon so great is the echo that the striking together of the palms of the hands is said to make a report equal to that of a 12-pound cannon.

MONTGOMERY CIRCUIT COURT. R. A. CHILES, Adm'r, ex Off.

versus ELLA SMITH & Co. Deft.

Notice of Sale in Equity.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Montgomery Circuit Court, rendered at the January term, 1904, thereof, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on the 16th Day of May, 1904.

At 1 o'clock p. m. or thereabout, being Court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, at the Court House door in the city of Mt. Sterling, Ky., the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit:

A certain lot and dwelling situated in Montgomery County, Ky., on the waters of Huntington Creek, bounded and described as follows: Street corner at a stake in the center of a street, commencing at Howard Smith, thence N. 28° 30' E. 124 poles along the line of Howard Smith, thence S. 8° 12' E. 124 poles to a stake, thence S. 8° 12' E. 124 poles to corner of Lot 2, thence N. 89° E. 14 poles to the beginning, containing one acre and one-half of land and Smith by Smith & Co. by deed dated September 24, of the record in the Montgomery County Clerk's office, to which deed reference is made for a more particular description, back on the west side of the house place above described, beginning at the southwest corner of the above described lot, thence with a line of said lot N. 38° W. 124 poles to a stake corner of the above described lot, thence S. 2° 12' W. 124 poles to a corner, thence S. 3° E. 124 poles to the middle of the street S. 60° 34' E. 10 feet to the beginning, being a strip of land deeded to Thornton Smith by E. T. Smith and recorded in deed book 38 at page 44 of the records of the Montgomery County Clerk's office to which deed reference is made.

The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a deed, and bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these conditions. The sale will be retained on the land sold till all the purchase money is paid. Bids will be taken by the Clerk of the Court.

editor of the Frankfort Roundabout, says: "For a year or more I suffered a great deal from a dull aching pain across my back. At times the aching was constant for a day or two. If I sat still but for a short time it became almost unbearable and if I stooped or lifted anything I felt sharp twinges in the small of my back. The secretions from the kidneys were most irregular as well as highly colored and the odor very offensive. I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills through our papers and got a box. After using them a few days I commenced to see an improvement. I kept on with the treatment and the pains on my back entirely left me and the kidney secretions became normal.
From the great amount of good I derived from the use of this medi-

my hearty endorsement."

Children's School Lunches.

This is a most important subject, and should be given careful thought by those who have to prepare them daily, yet it seems that few mothers give this subject the consideration they should. Too many depend upon preparing whatever happens to be on hand, or left over, and often the child's health is ruined by the school lunch. Things that taste good warm at the table are not always appetizing when eaten cold, and are often indigestible when cold.

The pale sickly looking children are nearly always those whose lunch basket is filled with sweets, or sour pickles, or sour sandwiches. Some children have an appetite only for sweets, but the mother does them an injury in complying with their wishes, for I have noticed that the most delicate and troublesome children are those who feed almost entirely upon sweets.

Portions of broiled chicken, sandwiches of baked or broiled ham or steak, a boiled egg, or two, light bread or light biscuits, will always be relished cold by the school children. Each child should have his or her own individual lunch basket; this may make the mother more trouble, but will save trouble between the children. Some sweet is always wanted, and if pies are liked, one should have a small pie tin, only large enough for one child, and then it can be put up uncut, without spilling the juice over everything. I find the sliced apple pie much liked, and if well made are much healthier than custards or cakes. These small pies could be made while the fire is in the stove for breakfast and then would be fresh each day.

One should study variety; if the same thing is put up each day the children soon lose their appetite, and do not care to even look into the lunch basket. Where it can be had, ripe fruit of some kind should be put up for the morning and afternoon recesses. The smaller children invariably turn to the lunch basket when dismissed for the morning recess, and this is often their first thought at the evening recess, which comes so soon after the midday lunch.—Laura Jones in Inland Farmer.

The fellow who doesn't talk is not necessarily stupid. He may know enough to keep his mouth shut.

The women of Louisville are organizing a Travelers' Aid department to the Women's Christian Association, which will look after girls coming to the city and living in cheap boarding houses while in the city. It will co-operate with the women in St. Louis, who are seeking to save unfortunates from answering advertisements and listening to agents who falsely promise almost any kind of work and pay at the Fair. The work is to be pushed in a number of other directions. Women representatives are to be kept in the depots and "massers" and newspaper advertisements are to be run down.

W. S. LLOYD'S CONFIDENCE IN HYOMEL.

Not a Penny Need be Paid Unless it Cures You of Catarrh.

"Use Hyomel and be cured of catarrh," says W. S. Lloyd. When a responsible business house like this comes out and advertises that Hyomel will not cost a penny unless it does all that is claimed for it, it shows what remarkable confidence they have in this scientific medical treatment.

A complete Hyomel outfit consists of a neat inhaler, that can be carried in the pocket or purse, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomel, and costs but $1. The inhaler lasts a lifetime and when extra bottles of Hyomel are needed, they can be obtained for 50c.

This treatment does away with all disagreeable and dangerous stomach dosing. Breathed through the Hyomel inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, it impregnates every particle of air taken in of the air passages and lungs with germ-killing and health-giving balsams. In this way it cures the most chronic and deep-seated catarrhal diseases of the air passages and respiratory organs.

The user is the sole judge whether Hyomel is to be paid for or not. If it does not help, W. S. Lloyd will cheerfully return the money and it will not cost a penny.

Some Recipes for Economical Cakes.

The poor housekeeper, whose husband feels himself very much injured if he does not have cake at least once a week, if not oftener, had a hard time last winter, when eggs were so scarce and high, so I will give a few recipes for cakes which do not require so many eggs, and which I have tested often, and know to be good. The following makes an excellent layer cake:

One cup of butter, two of sugar, three cups of flour, four eggs and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder.

Beat the eggs separately, cream the butter and sugar, and stir into the beaten yolks. Add the sweet milk, then the flour and whites of the eggs, and lastly the baking powder. In making baking powder cakes it is always best to put the baking powder in last; it makes the cake so much lighter. Bake in well-buttered cake plates in a hot stove. For this cake, any filling can be used that is desired, but I will give the recipes for three very popular fillings:

Caramel filling.—One pound of brown sugar, one cup of sweet milk, one lump of butter the size of a walnut, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Put the butter, sugar and milk on the stove, and let them come to a boil slowly, else the milk is apt to curdle. Then boil, stirring constantly until it turns red and begins to thicken. Remove from the stove and beat till it cools, then add the vanilla and spread between the cakes. There are a good many recipes for chocolate filling, but this is the best I have ever tried.

Two squares of chocolate, one pound of sugar, one lump of butter the size of an egg, and one cup of milk. Boil steadily for about fifteen minutes, till it begins to get thick; then take from the fire, add one teaspoonful of vanilla and beat till cool. Great care must be taken not to cool this too much, as it will become as hard as a rock when cold, if such is the case. Every housekeeper who has ever tried this recipe for lemon filling is delighted with it, so I give it here: Two lemons, the yolks of two eggs, one cup of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of hot water and one tablespoonful of butter. After paring the lemons, soak the parings in the hot water, and add this water to the juice and sugar, and heat over boiling water till the sugar melts, after which pour over the yolks of the eggs beaten light, and cook in a double boiler until it thickens, stirring constantly. Let it cool before spreading between the cakes, which should also be cold, or quite cold. The whites of the eggs can be used to make the boiled icing with which the cake should be iced.

The above recipe for layer cake, with the lemon filling, and iced all over, makes a very pretty and delicious cake, and does not require but six eggs for the whole thing, filling and all.

The old-fashioned pound cake is unequalled, but it is so expensive now, when butter and eggs are high, that it is often beyond the means of the housekeeper, so I will give a recipe for a cheap pound cake, which makes an excellent substitute:

Five eggs, four cups of sifted flour, three cups of sugar, one heaping cup of butter, one cup of boiling water, and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of lemon extract. Cream the butter and sugar, add the beaten yolks, then the hot water, then the flour and whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth, and lastly the baking powder. Bake in a moderately hot oven with a pan of hot water on the rack above to prevent the cake from browning too rapidly. An old and experienced housekeeper told me about using the hot water instead of sweet milk, and you have no idea how much lighter it makes the cake—but the water must be boiling.

Variety cake.—Three eggs, two cups of sugar, one cup of milk, one-half cup of butter, three cups of flour, with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, or one teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one-half teaspoonful of soda. Beat until light, then divide the batter into two equal parts. To the spiced part add two tablespoonfuls of ground ginger, two of ground cinnamon, two of spice and two of cloves. Flavor the unsipped part with lemon or vanilla. Bake each part in two layers and put together with icing. This makes a very pretty cake, and is a general favorite.

W. S. Lloyd's Unusual Offer.

"It isn't often that I have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said W. S. Lloyd to an Advocate man who dropped into his store, "but I am glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on this basis."

"The Dr. Howard Company, in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizing me to sell their regular fifty cent bottles at half-price, 25 cents, and, although I have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory."

"One great advantage of this specific," he continued, "is its small dose and convenient form. There are sixty doses in a vial that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and every one has more medicinal power than a big pill or tablet or a tumbler of mineral water."

I am still selling the specific at half-price, although I cannot tell how long I shall be able to do so, and anyone who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion, or a general played-out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers that if they are not satisfied with the specific they can come right back to my store and I will cheerfully refund their money." [May 4, 18]

COLLEGES IN TURKEY.

American Institutions of Learning Well Patronized by Americans. Owing to the widespread interest regarding the impeded American Christian colleges for young men in Turkey, the American board of commissioners for foreign missions is about to issue a report on the subject, translated from the Turkish. It comes from Aintab, central Turkey, says the Boston Transcript, and contains the following:

These colleges, according to the order of their dates of establishment, are: Robert college, at Constantinople; Syrian Protestant college, at Beirut; Central Turkey college, at Aintab; Euphrates college, at Harpoot; Anatolia college, at Marsovan, and St. Paul's institute, at Tarsus. Beirut college, in the growth of its courses of study, variety of its branches, completeness of its buildings and apparatus, has been making very rapid progress, so that the value of its present property is not less than 100,000 liras, nearly $400,000. The number of its teachers in various branches is more than 40, 10 of whom are professors. There are now 1,480 students in the colleges, 771 of whom are Armenians.

There is one point in which none of the others can be compared with Robert college. The latter holds the greatest number of the officers in governmental departments. It is able to show among its graduates lieutenants, general commanders, judges, mayors, governors, ambassadors and even cabinet members and prime ministers, and these are not merely some exceptions, but nearly one-fourth of its graduates have attained one or the other of these high positions. This superiority may be ascribed partly to its high standard of education, and largely to its important geographical situation in a central point between Asia and Europe. Many famous Armenian professors in Constantinople, also well-known merchants, physicians and editors, are graduates of Robert college. The Euphrates college has suffered most from the disturbances. The tendency in its vicinity to leave the country has been so strong that, besides the number of students being diminished, many hopeful graduates and even teachers of the college have left the country for foreign lands.

VALUE OF TRAVEL.

Helps Us to See Ourselves as Others See Us.

There is no study so fascinating and so profitable as the study of the peoples of the earth, says the Four-Track News. In the mirror of mankind we can best see ourselves, and by the rules of comparison and of contrast view our own strength and weakness; our own commendable traits and deplorable faults. The man whose ethnological education, gained by actual contact with different nationalities, places him in command of this knowledge is best equipped to master many of the problems of life, and especially to comprehend all great international questions. Pope tells us that "the proper study of mankind is man," and that man who has carefully studied mankind is the man whom other men most desire to meet. The traveler who has seen and studied the different nations of the earth is never at a loss for an audience, and if he has had the desire and the capacity to look below the surface for the causes which have produced national effects, he can command the earnest attention of all thinking men. By travel we do not only see other nations and read their history in the lives of the people themselves, but we learn to more correctly estimate our own position in the family of nations by seeing ourselves as others see us.

A Murderous Horse.

A remarkable story comes from Mellor, near Blackburn. A man noticed a horse circling continually round a lamb, urging it toward a fence, and finally thrusting it through a hedge into a flooded dyke beyond, at the exact spot where another lamb was drowned. The horse was diverted from its murderous design with great difficulty.

Republican District Convention.

The Tenth Congressional District Convention of the Republican party met here Monday morning after a brief welcome address by B. W. Hall and the introduction of Hon. Fred A. Vaughn, of Johnson county, district chairman, who was glad to be here and on an occasion of the most vital importance, Rev. H. G. Turner, of the M. E. Church, South, invoked God's blessing, and a temporary organization was effected by the election of T. S. Kirk, of Paintsville, Chairman, and R. Lee Stewart, of Hindman, Secretary. After the appointment of committees the meeting adjourned and re-convened at 1:30. Resolutions endorsing the National administration, every movement without the slightest exception was passed, as was also the course of the Hon. John W. Yerkes. The temporary organization was made permanent. H. G. Garrett, of Clark, and J. M. Bowling, of Pike, were made district delegates to the Chicago convention. Hon. R. H. Winn, of this city, was chosen a member of the State Central Committee. Senator William Dingus, of Floyd, district elector, with Lucian Beckner, of Clark, his assistant. Delegates were instructed to vote for Hon. John W. Yerkes for a member of the Republican National Committee, and the counties in the State convention will cast their votes for ex-Gov. W. O. Bradley for delegate-at-large to the National Convention.

The county representation was good, there being present about fifty delegates. Members of committees at Louisville convention: On Resolutions—A. T. Wood, of Montgomery. On Credentials—J. A. Wallace, of E. Hill. On Rules—J. L. McCoy, Breathitt. On Organization—G. W. Guertley, of Lee. Vice President—Dr. J. K. Wells, of Morgan.

WHAT THE TYPES DO TO US.

Sometimes Bad Handwriting Is Responsible for Part of It. The fearful things that the types make innocent mortals say are calculated to make the recording angel weep, but usually they drive the victim of their depravity to something more strenuous and lurid in the shape of language, says the Catholic Telegraph.

Here are a few examples: A popular and prominent man in England was once called upon to address an assemblage, which greeted him enthusiastically and with cheers. The newspaper which reported the meeting said innocently: "The vast concourse met the air with their snouts." A MS. read as follows: "All these facts are really worth nothing." The printer, however, inserted an "h" into the last word, and it was thus set up: "All these facts are really worth nothing."

An enthusiastic editor wrote: "The battle is now opened." But, alas! the compositor spelled battle with an "o," and his readers said they had suspected it right along. A New York editor once wrote an obituary on a man of some prominence, and among other things he said: "He began life as a legal practitioner, but was diverted from it by love of bitters."

An instance of faithful effort to "follow copy" occurred in a New York newspaper office. The reporter, who wrote a very bad vertical hand, put it down that zigzag flashes of lightning played among the clouds, and in the proof it came out that "319,309 flashes" played among the clouds. Most readers will recollect similar examples. There is the case of the learned reporter who wrote: "The bride looked as faint." It appeared "all feet."

OUR BROTHER.

O death where is the sting?
O grave where is the victory?
Life, a passing era, denies to death its sting, and to the grave its victory—God's will be done.

A gentle soul has left behind the cares of earth, and gone to a home in keeping with his life's builded hopes. The departed was as pure as a sister's devotion and as gentle as a mother's love. His name was an index to truth, his word a pledge, and his purpose honesty. He came of a race of people honest by breeding, just by practice, and with hearts full of sympathy for their erring associates. Such were his home environments in young life. Nursed in a cradle of purity, and reared with the hope ever present in his bosom—"Nearer My God To Thee."

Association for forty years with him and family brought the writer in close contact with them. He knew them, as only the grateful can know the warmth of the fire side of God's people. He has known their pleasures and their sorrows. He has more than once seen at the friendly warning: "Ring the bell softly, there's a crape on the door," which bring back to memory's fold the silent sleeper of the casket now resting in a new made grave in the city of the dead.

O death where is thy sting?
O grave where is thy victory?

Often on Sabbath mornings standing with him upon the hill tops of the home of his birth we have heard from the spires of your churches the peal of their bells calling upon God's people to come and commune together. 'As the echo from valleys would trace back the calls each sound wave would carry with them a prayer from the bosom of the departed. He was the gentlest man I ever knew. His death is our loss—God's gain.

He was named for and after a grand old man, Enoch Smith, whose precepts he emulated during life, illustrative of the esteem in which he was held in his adopted home of Jellico, Tenn. I was on a visit to him, and meeting a friend upon the street he made inquiry: "How in the world did you people send such a good man to live with us in these mountains." Such was the character builded by him in his new-made home, from the teachings and foundation laid in his infancy by that good old father and mother.

My friend and brother was born in Montgomery county, Kentucky, in the year 1855. He was reared upon the farm, was a faithful son, and an affectionate brother, and an earnest Christian. His first venture in life's career was to kneel at the altar of old Somerset, and pledge his life to the keeping of his God, and during it, he kept that pledge, and God looked down and cheered him onward in the pathway he pursued. In 1873 he attended college in Virginia and there completed his education. On his return to the home of his birth he pursued farming and so continued during his residence in Montgomery county. Intimately I knew him and his family for forty years. I never knew him to speak ill of any one nor to utter a cross word in his family. His kindness was such that each sister seemed to be loved better than the other. In 1882 he married Miss Emma C. Crouch and with her he shared the pleasures and sorrows of life. Often he said to the writer, that with his troubles he could not have borne them had it not been for the cheer and comfort of his devoted wife.

The announcement of his death brought forth from this community regardless of race, color or condition, an universal chorus of sorrow. The funeral cortege that followed him to his last resting place marked the esteem in which he was held. He has gone, yet he has left with us the recollection of a neighbor, a friend and a brother that few who may follow can leave.

For thirty years I was closely associated with him in business. I never knew him to utter an oath. I never knew him to resort to a subterfuge, and I never knew him to avoid a duty. I knew our brother as few men knew him. For whom the Lord loveth, He chasteneth. God laid heavenly his hand upon the happy household of this young father and mother, and sorrowed their lives, yet cemented them close to him. Within ten days death's ruthless hand swept from their home their three children. Their fair daughter, Minnie, was called on February 17th, 1900. Their eldest, Mattie Mitchell, on February 20th, 1900, and their youngest, little Horrie, on February 27th, 1900. They rest in one bed with its green coverlet in their silent home in Macphelah Cemetery. Father and mother forced from their loved ones resting in the city of the dead, sought comfort in the grace of God, new surroundings, and in their own companionship. Time sped on and the sorrows of their young life were softened by the vicissitudes of the world, until 1903 when they removed to Jellico, Tenn., and there financial prosperity lent its aid, and God coming to their rescue, brightened their home in the spring of 1900 by the birth of little Milton. The curtains were then drawn back, the crape was cast off and sunshine gleamed its way over the threshold of their newly made home, and they were living life over again. Yet the Lord scourged those he loveth, and in May 3 years after, little Milton's birth, the sunshine receded from their home, and their only child was called from the home of its parents and winged its way to a home beyond the skies. His body rests with his sisters' in Macphelah, his soul with them above. Yet the loss was more than the father could bear. The burden was too heavy, and he traveled from home to find relief. God pitied him and watched his wanderings over the spacious plains of the far West, and on Monday morning, April 25th, 1904, called him up above to meet his little ones hanging over the parapets of Heaven awaiting his coming. Thus ended the life of Enoch Smith Jameson in the 49th year of his age.

Gathered with relatives and friends around his grave to see the last of our departed brother, a sense of love went out to those who paid their last tribute to his memory. Especially did my heart lean down to the pillow placed at the head of his grave by the wish of the members of the Christian Church of Jellico (his new-made home) and engraved with violet colored letters of immortelles—"To Our Brother in Christ."

Well do I remember the day he gave up earthly hope, it was the 5th of May past. He was standing over the grave of his last child—little Milton. With pathetic bursts of sorrow his hopes were buried with his only child—from that day to the day of his death. He gave up all hope of happiness here and looked to a throne above for comfort.

If there be choice seats in Heaven one has been set apart awaiting his coming. Whilst he has left earth he has gone to another home to meet father and mother, brother and sisters, and cradle within his embrace little Mattie, Minnie, Henrietta and Milton, and around the throne on high join with them in one anthem—"Nearer My God To Thee."

Numberless friends with pathetic feeling garlanded his grave with flowers of affection and watered it with tears of love. Were I as good as I knew Smith Jameson to be I would welcome a call this moment.

An humble miner, when he heard of the death of our brother, as a silent tear stole down his cheek, said: "His home was one to which I could go, and be at home. He loved all of us."

DEATHS.

HENRY.—On April 25 Mr. George Henry, aged 81 years, died of paralysis at his home near North Middletown. He is the father of Mesdames J. M. Logan and A. D. Henry, of Clark county.

CASSIDY.—The death of Mrs. T. D. Cassidy, of Lexington, occurred on Tuesday, April 26, 1904. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. I. J. Spencer at the residence on Wednesday afternoon and the burial was in that city. She was a member of the Christian Church and was a good woman, loving and kind. To her husband and two children we extend our sympathy. Mesdames B. F. Thomson, B. W. Trimble, M. T. McElldowney and J. W. Burton attended the funeral.

STOKLEY.—Wm. T. Stokley died at his home on Spencer on Thursday night about midnight April 28, 1904. The funeral was conducted at Spencer Church on Friday afternoon by Rev. J. R. Hobbs, and the burial was in the Coon's graveyard. His wife is the daughter of T. N. Perry. She and three children survive him. Hoping to be improved in health he went to California during the winter, but soon returned. He was a member of the Christian Church and was a worthy citizen. To his family we extend our sympathy.

JAMESON.—The remains of E. S. Jameson, who died at Tucson, Arizona, arrived in this city on last Monday at 12:25. Rev. H. D. Clark conducted funeral services at 1:30 at the residence of Joel Feiler and the burial was in Macphelah. The attendance was large. He was a lovable man, worthy of confidence and esteem. Beautiful floral offerings were sent by the Christian and Presbyterian Churches and Board of Education of Jellico. The following from a distance attended the funeral in this city: R. B. Baird, cashier of Citizens' Bank; S. B. McComb and wife, Chas. Hughes, M. E. Crouch, all of Jellico; T. E. K. Thomas and wife, Claude M. Thomas, Dr. Weaver and Miss Anna Weaver, of Bourbon; Strother D. Mitchell, of Allen, Kansas; Wm. and Mary Dunlap, of Woodford; Dr. Minnie Dunlap, of Lexington; Miss Hallie Todd, of Louisville; James E. Hughes, of Lexington; Sam Hughes and wife, of Bath. Circuit Court is in session.

The Hagan Gas Engine and Manufacturing Company has been incorporated with $75,000 capital stock.

In the $100,000 damage suit of Mrs. Abrelia Marcum against Hargises, Ed Callahan and B. F. French, an effort was made by defendants to prevent Judge Benton from sitting in case, but he refused to vacate. The plea that this court has no jurisdiction was overruled, and the defendants then withdrew their request for change of venue. The case is set for trial Monday, May 16th, and will attract much attention. Judge John F. Hager, of Ashland, and Senator Jeff Hanna, of Elliott county, were admitted to the bar. They are counsel for Hargis, Callahan, and French, in the suit. A. F. Byrd and Chas. J. Bronston are two of Mrs. Marcum's attorneys.

The M. E. Church is undergoing improvements and will have a new roof in a short time and be painted inside and out.

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After While You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment is to add to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the "worn-out" nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many nervous cases, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes. The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain, which has caused me to suffer with nervous prostration, it gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine, and the very satisfactory results in the treatment of these ailments, and sleep well, my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well, and am feeling better than I have for some time."—D. A Few Poultry Remedies.

Aroup cure is said to be seven drops of kerosene in a teaspoonful of molasses.

A strong solution of sulphate of zinc, applied to the sores, is recommended for sore head.

Poke root pounded up and placed in the drinking water is a much praised cholera cure.

Citron ointment, applied daily for several days, is a New England remedy for chicken pox.

A wash made of chlorate of potash in vinegar is excellent for catarrhs in the throat and mouth.

Painting the corn with lardine once a week is recommended for bumble foot in the early stages.

Bowel troubles are relieved by a few drops of spirits of camphor being placed in the drinking water.

For a grown fowl, a dose of quinine is what will lie on the point of a common-sized pocket knife, given once a day. Quinine dissolved in water is an excellent wash for swollen head. Quinine in almost any form is a sure remedy for cold.

Indian tobacco steeped in water until it looks like coffee and then the food moistened with it is recommended for gapes in chicks.

The Ohio Farmer says that grated calamus root, mixed with bread crumbs and made into small boluses, is a cure for cholera symptoms.

Always see that the nostrils are clean before administering liquid medicine. We lost several birds by strangling before we were acquainted with the cause.

Another cholera cure is a teaspoonful of ginger to a teaspoonful of boiling water. Allow the mixture to cool, and then give a tablespoonful to each fowl three times a day.

Farm Journal recommends fifteen drops of spirits of turpentine in a pint of water, and this used to moisten bran and cornmeal, equal parts, for worms in fowls. Give one meal of this for two days in succession.

Some Western breeders claim the venetian red will prevent both gapes and cholera. A quarter of a pound mixed with enough cornmeal to be crumbly when moistened, is sufficient for fifty fowls. Feed once a week.

Whisky is an excellent wash for torn combs or wattles. Afterward coat with vaseline. A raw egg beaten up, to which are added a dozen drops of whisky, should be given as a tonic, and to prevent cold from resulting from the wound.

A piece of gum camphor about the size of a grain of wheat is an excellent remedy for cases of gapes. Repeat daily until the patient is relieved. Another good remedy is ten drops of camphor or turpentine to a pint of drinking water.

Exterior Decoration of the Home.

One can form a very good idea of the taste and intellect of the inmates of the home by the surroundings. The finest bit of architecture does not seem like home without shrubs, vines and shade trees. The graceful drapery of the vines gives an artistic touch to the home that is lacking in the massive, unadorned walls. Here in Kentucky there are so many of those old-fashioned homes, built with those massive stone pillars supporting the roof of the verandah, and these draped with that beautiful creeper, Ampelopsis Velutina, make a truly artistic and beautiful home. This has bright green foliage, changing to red in the fall, and withal is a very dainty vine.

The Clematis Jackmani is one of the most excellent vines for verandahs, and in June the vine is covered with the dark, velvety purple flowers. The Clematis is a hardy, vigorous grower, delighting in rich soil and sunshine, but I have seen them blooming well on the north side of the house. Henry I. is one of the finest of the white-flowered sorts.

With the approach of spring, nearly every one is stirred with gardening impulses, but unfortunately this does not last long with some, and for this class the hardy shrubs and vines that require little care after they are set out will prove the most satisfactory.

The Wisteria is a most beautiful spring flowering vine, flowering in May and June. This is a very graceful and pretty climber for covering old, unsightly tree trunks, or for transforming small, unattractive outhouses into things of beauty. Flowers are borne in long, drooping clusters, and are quite fragrant. They sometimes give a second crop of flowers in the fall.

The Cinnamon vine is quite pretty, leaves heart-shaped, and is a very rapid grower and quite hardy. The vine dies back to the ground at the approach of cold weather, but springs into life and beauty again in April. The flowers are quite fragrant, but are insignificant ones, being green and quite small.

The old, familiar Honey-suckle is too well known to need any description, but it seems to be a true home vine, very few homes have not this. It makes an excellent screen, and if planted along an unsightly fence it will, within a few years' time, completely cover this, draping it with a mass of beautiful evergreen, and only during the severest of winter does it shed its leaves.

There is a long list of shrubs which, when carefully planted, add much to the attractiveness of the home. Most shrubs start into new growth so early in the spring that transplanting can be done most successfully in November.

Good Advice

Is to tell your neighbors to use Paracanth for cold in the head or chest. It relieves colds, catarrh and sore throat quicker than any other known remedy, because it opens the pores, induces perspiration and removes congestion. It drives away that "stopped up" feeling and draws out all fever and inflammation. Try it. It won't take a minute, and it will relieve you in less time. 42 ct.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Profit in High Grade Beef.

In a paper on the result of his exhaustive experiments in fattening steers for market, Prof. H. W. Mumford, of the Illinois Experiment Station, amply demonstrates that no feeder can afford to handle low-grade cattle. In his series of practical tests, Prof. Mumford demonstrated that:

More rapid and much larger gains may be secured on the better than on the more common grades.

The better the grade of cattle, the higher the percentages of dressed beef.

Low-grade cattle carry larger percentages of internal fat than the better bred ones, while there appears to be a more abundant and more evenly distributed layer of surface fat on the better bred steers.

Both the market and slaughter tests of the various grades as finished clearly indicate that to the packer and butcher condition is of first importance.

The greater the spread in the market between the various grades of fat steers, the more is the advantage in favor of the better grade.

Opportunities for larger profits lie with the better grades of feeders.—National Provisioner.

A Picnic Party

Should always carry along a bottle of Paracanth. In case of a bruise or a sprain it relieves the pain instantly and cures quickly. Also the best remedy for sun burn and prevents mosquitoes and chiggers from biting you. 42 ct.

Free range is first in the writer's opinion as far as saving work and expense is concerned. We would not expect to run a poultry plant and let all stock have free range. Early in the spring the choicest stock could be put out to run over the ground and the change be a great benefit. Later as hundreds of young chickens come, the older birds are yarded and the young ones given the run of the place, but they can be yarded at any time. A breeder must study the best interest of the stock and make such changes as will prove a benefit to the fowls. Above all, we try to start the youngsters right, so as to have size and vigor.

To Aid Kentucky Mountain Schools.

In aid of the schools for the Kentucky mountaineers, the students of the Comstock School in New York will give a tea and hold a cake and candy sale in the parlors of the school, on April 29.

Many Kentuckians who are visiting in New York will lend their aid, and a large sum of money is expected to be realized.

Whitecaps in Christian county dragged Walsh Childress from his bed and ducked him, strung him up and beat him severely. He was accused of robbing meat houses.

How to Make Children Lively.

There is just one way—that is to surround them by day and night with an atmosphere of love. Restrain and reproof may be mingled with the love, but love must be a constant element. "I found my little girl was growing unamiable and plain," said a mother to us the other day, "and reflecting on it sadly, I could only accuse myself as the cause thereof. So I changed my management, and improved every opportunity to praise and encourage her; to assure her of my earnest desire that she should grow up to lovely and harmonious womanhood. As a rose opens to sunshine, so the child's heart opened with the warmth of constant affection and caresses. I showered upon her; her peevishness passed away; her face grew beautiful, and now one look from me will bring her to my side, obedient to my will, and happiest when she is nearest me." Is there not in this a lesson for all parents? Not all the plying or weeding or cultivation of every sort we can give our growing crops will do for them what the steady shining of the sun can effect. Love is the sunshine of the family; without it no character, or morality, or virtue, can be brought to perfection.—Ex.

Uncle Ned's Life Insurance.

A representative of the Workingmen's Industrial Aid Insurance Company, called upon an elderly colored man, with a view of getting him to insure his life.

"Good morning, Uncle Ned," said the solicitor.

"Mawin' boss," said the old man, raising his hat and making a low courtesy.

"Uncle Ned, do you carry any insurance?" inquired the solicitor.

"Does I carry what?" asked Uncle Ned, in great surprise.

"Do you carry any insurance? Is your life insured?" asked the solicitor, by way of explanation.

"Bless Gawd! yas, yas!" replied the colored man, "long ago—long ago."

The solicitor asked: "In what company?"

Uncle Ned answered: "I've a Baptist, sah; I've a Baptist—a deepwatah Baptist"—Lippincott's Magazine.

I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.
